Arable land is declining in Meherpur

MEHERPUR, Dec 28:

Due to the digging of brickfields and ponds in one cultivable land after another, the cultivable land in the district specially in Gangni upazila area of □□ is gradually decreasing. As there is no visible step by the government to change the class of land, landowners are digging ponds and establishing brickfields hither and thither. The Department of Agricultural Extension fears that there may be a food grain crisis in the future due to the reduction in cultivable land.

According to the Gangni Upazila Agricultural Extension Office, the cultivable land in the upazila was 28,566 hectares five years ago. At present this land has been reduced to 23,114 hectares. In particular, the area under aman and vegetable cultivation has been gradually reduced. Apart from the construction of brickfields and digging of ponds, the Department of Agriculture has expressed the view that the land is being reduced due to the construction of houses everywhere without plan.

Various information has been gathered by visiting different areas of Gangni on the spot and talking to the locals. Hashem Ali of Zugirgofa village said that there was 50 acres of land in Mundail beel of this village. Albert Biswas, an aristocrat of the village, dug a pond on 30 bighas of land. Later, when the inlet of the local canal was closed, the low lands of the others became waterlogged. At one stage, the landowners became compelled to sell their lands to Albert Biswas with nominal price. In this way he has cut pond in the vast land in the field. But in the deed of that land it is written Dhani land.

Similarly, ponds and brickfields have been constructed on cultivable land in different areas including Sholotaka

Jorpukur Bamandi Chhatian. Many are setting up houses. With the increase in the population of the family, as the family is getting divided, and they are making houses without changing the class of the land. On the other hand, many people are constructing houses on crop lands to facilitate frequentation. Thus the cultivable land is decreasing. Many do not understand the issue of changing land class.

According to sentient people, although there is a class of paddy land houses, ponds and gardens but there is no category of brick kilns. Mentionable, there are at least 42 brickfields in this upazila. And many people are selling soil from the cultivable land to brickfields. This is wasting the fertile energy of the land. It goes without saying, many are digging ponds by selling soil in the brick fields. As a result, the owner of the land is able to dig the pond free of cost and also gets a handsome amount of money.

Gangni Upazila Agricultural Officer Shahibuddin Ahmed said there is no shortage of food due to the cultivation of multi-purpose crops on the same cultivable land and the cultivation of improved and high yielding varieties. As the number of cultivable lands decreases, food shortages may face at anytime. It needs to be remedied now.

Gangni Upazila Assistant Commissioner (Land) Nur E Alam Siddiqui said that no one can change the class of land if he wants to. In this case, permission has to be taken by applying to the Deputy Commissioner. Several have already been raided and fined in the wake of the allegations. Action will be taken in the future too.

Dr. Mansur Alam Khan, DC said that not only in Meherpur, but in the whole country, the cultivable land is declining at the rate of 2%. Land is being reduced in many ways including housing. There is no problem in digging the pond but there are many problems with selling the soil of the pond in the brick field. The administration is working on this and will continue to do so.

Today Horrific August 21

Today is the horrifying August 21, one of the cruelest days in the country's political history, when a number of Awami League activists were killed in a violent grenade attack during the BNP-Jamaat tenure.

This day in 2004, grenades were hurled at an AL rally on Bangabandhu Avenue in the capital, killing at least 24 people, including Ivy Rahman, and wounding scores of others.

Awami League president Sheikh Hasina, also then leader of the Opposition, narrowly escaped the barbaric attack, but suffered damage to her right ear.

The people of the country are still haunted by the August 21 carnage even after 16 years of the heartrending incident.

As the clock struck 5:22pm that day, all hell broke loose as assailants hurled grenades indiscriminately at the rally.

There was a makeshift podium on a truck as the BNP-Jamaat government didn't allow the use of any usual podium.

Besides the sound of grenade blasts, there were men and women screaming either in panic or pain after being wounded.

The area was flooded with blood and pieces of human flesh. Sheikh Hasina luckily survived as her party men formed a human shield around her. The grenade targeting her did not explode luckily.

President M Abdul Hamid and Prime Minister Sheikh Hasina paid rich tributes to the victims of the August 21 grenade attack and prayed for eternal peace of their departed souls on the eve of the 16th anniversary of the heinous grenade attack.

They urged all to come forward being imbued with the spirit of Liberation War to turn the sorrows of August 21 into strength for building a peaceful and democratic Bangladesh which will be free from terrorism and militancy.

“August 21 grenade attack in 2004 is a mournful day as the killers launched history’s barbaric grenade attacks on an Awami League rally on Bangabandhu Avenue with an attempt to kill Bangabandhu’s daughter Sheikh Hasina,” said the President.

In a separate message, Sheikh Hasina said the barbaric grenade attack was carried out that day under the direct patronisation of the BNP-Jamaat alliance during an anti-terrorism rally of Awami League to kill her.

Terming the grenade attack a ‘stigmatised day’ in the political history of the country, she said, “Our party leaders and activists saved me from the series of grenade attacks by forming a human shield.”

“I survived the attack due to immense blessings of the Almighty but some 22 leaders and activists, including Mahila Awami League president Ivy Rahman, embraced martyrdom,” the premier said, adding that more than 500 leaders and activists, journalists and security personnel were injured.

In a landmark verdict, the court on October 10, 2018 awarded capital punishment to 19 people, including former state minister Lutfozzaman Babar and former deputy minister Abdus Salam Pintu, in two cases filed over the deadly grenade attack.

To protect the real culprits, the then BNP-Jamaat government staged 'Joj Mia drama', showing him the prime accused in the grenade attack case.

To mark the day, the ruling Awami League, its front organisations and different political, socio-cultural and professional organisations will place wreaths at a makeshift altar on Bangabandhu Avenue at 9:00am today.

The incident took place on Saturday. Sheikh Hasina attended the party rally as the chief guest. After the rally, an anti-violence procession was supposed to be brought out. Miscreants started hurling grenades soon after she (Sheikh Hasina) finished her speech with the slogan 'Joy Bangla, Joy Bangabandhu'.

AL leaders and activists and common people got stunned when grenades exploded at the political gathering, killing at least 16 party activists on the spot. Ivy Rahman, wife of late President Zillur Rahman, succumbed to her injuries after fighting for 58 hours in hospital.

Two other major suspects – former Major General ATM Amin and former Lt Colonel Saiful Islam Joarder – are believed to be staying in Dubai.

Meherpur jail serves pitha to inmates

Inmates of Meherpur jail had a chance to escape from their everyday mundane activities inside the prison on Thursday when the authorities arranged a pitha festival for them.

On Thursday night, the prison compound was brimming with aroma of various types of pitha, the rice-made delectable winter delicacies of the country.

ASM Kamrul Huda, superintendent of Meherpur jail, said they arranged the festival for the 227 male and 6 female inmates so they also can join in the pitha-tasting festivities that grip the nation during the winter time.

Professional pitha makers were brought in and some of the inmates along with staff members of the jail took part in preparation, presentation and distribution of the pithas among all.

As a correctional facility, they try to organise these types of activities for inducing humane qualities among the inmates and the pitha festival will continue in years to come, he added.

Tajmid Ali, whose brother has been in the jail for the last eight years in connection with a murder case, said since there is a restriction on bringing home-cooked meal for a prisoner, it was a laudable initiative of the prison authorities.

Meherpur Deputy Commissioner Ataul Gani said treating inmates with compassion through such programmes can go a long way in facilitating behavioural correction of prison inmates.
